Man is standing on the brink of a new world. He has taken a step to extend himself to the ends of the universe. This man has started as a mere speck and grown to a complex human.

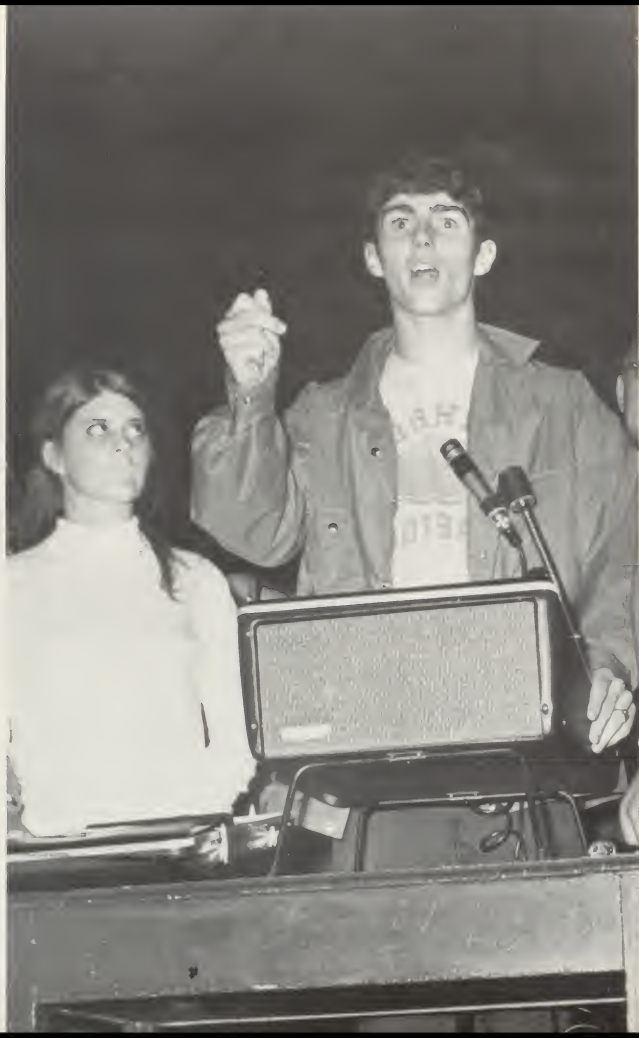

One step in the path of you, the student, has been your high school career. This career has had many integral parts, each one a step toward maturity. Each step is not independent. These steps go together to prepare man for the step out of high school into a world around him. If — just if — he can persevere through “pizzzzza day,” dissecting that rat, and all the other planks in the steps toward graduation, then he will have made a giant leap forward. Then you will be on your brink as man is on his brink of a new world. As Neil Armstrong said, “One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind.”

Academics

In every course we take, a good background in English is important. Our English Department, headed by Miss Barbra Zook, strives to instruct students in the basic fundamentals of speech and oral presentation, to increase our understanding and usage of vocabulary, and to educate us in proper grammar. Through a combination of these skills, it is hoped that pupils will be better able to organize and express their thoughts as they communicate with others. Outside reading is emphasized in both our English and our Literature courses, and creative writing is encouraged, through poetry, speeches, and essays. Grammatical competency and the ability to assemble interesting and informative content are tested with the formal research paper. Every student graduating from GHS is required to have an English major.

Everyday Living

Goshen High School offers four years of math ranging from general math to advanced algebra and trigonometry. Students find it necessary to have an understanding of several mathematical procedures to complete other courses. Chemistry and physics call for algebra, trigonometry, and geometry; mechanical drawing and art rely on a good background in geometry; many courses demand knowledge of logic. Mr. Blosser (above) is the head of the Math Department.

Science Expands Knowledge

Studies in the field of science are interesting and useful to the modern learner. A multitude of ideas, ranging from the exploration of why a weight falls to the complex theories of relativity, may be discussed in our science courses.

Headed by Mr. Elmer Bowers (upper left) the Science Department works to help students appreciate the orderliness of our universe. The required biology course focuses its attention on the physical make-up of living things. Chemistry deals with the composition of matter and the transformation of matter into energy. With its lessons on gravity, electrostatics, and magnetism, physics class projects the laws of science into familiar situations. Knowledge of applied science enables students to make practical applications of scientific rules. Our science teachers make use of laboratory facilities for student experiments and unique demonstrations.

Mr. Weaver prepares an experiment for his biology class.

Of The Elements

Mark Gardner gains the upper hand in a wrestling bout with Jim Cobb.

Health, swimming and physical education are required courses at Goshen High School. Students usually complete their required physical education in their sophomore year and are able to sign up for advanced classes as juniors and seniors. The program under the leadership of Mr. Doba, (below left), department head, is a varied one made more interesting with the fine supply of equipment at GHS. Team sports such as volleyball, basketball, and soccer are studied as well as individual sports like tennis and archery.

Physical Education

These boys are off to a great start as they begin their laps in Phys. Ed.

(Right) Zenka Snedzwick listens carefully to dictation as she practices her shorthand.

For Business World

The Business Education Department, of which Miss Ethel Grogg is chairman, has something useful for everyone. There is a wide variety of courses available to those who wish to enter the growing world of business. The general preparation in shorthand, typing and bookkeeping is followed by the advanced courses in which office forms and production are given special attention. Personal typing is offered especially for non-business majors and college bound students. Other department courses emphasize different areas of business training.

Howard Delcamp puts the finishing touches on his art project.

Art Education

The Art Department has a new teacher this year. The name of this teacher is Mr. Stan Neuenschwander. Mr. Neuenschwander (above) used mood music for his students to study their art projects. At almost any time of the day, during the regular class time, during noon hours and after school hours, music could be heard coming from the Art Room.

That Mr. Neuenschwander was getting good results was apparent to the entire student body. Vases, wine bottles and other bottles were stained and put in the library. At Christmas time the students showed what Christmas meant to them by painting pictures that were put on display for the entire school to enjoy. Besides the two art fields mentioned many, many more were successfully explored by Mr. Neuenschwander's classes.

Jackie Dressler outlines her blown up cartoon for her "Pop Art" project.

Home Economics

Diane Gall adds to her wardrobe through Home Economics.

Students in Home Economics classes learn the essentials of efficient homemaking. They learn to make and alter their own clothing. The different types and qualities of materials is taught to help the students choose the best for their purpose.

The Foods Department teaches the student how to prepare foods and about the ingredients that go into their foods. At the end of the semester in Miss Patton's class the students know a great deal more about what they have eaten all their lives.

Miss Blair (above) is the head of the Home Ec. Department of the high school. She is also the teacher of the Clothing Classes.

French, Spanish, Latin —

Mr. Horneman helps his students develop correct Spanish pronunciation by having them repeat dictation.

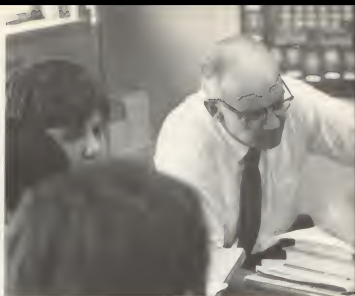

The languages offered at Goshen High School are very interesting and beneficial. Each course involves learning the language, customs, and history of the people. The study usually includes learning to read, write, and speak the language. The language laboratory provides an opportunity for students to speak and understand the language more fervently. A four-year course is now offered in all three languages for interested students. Mr. Fancil (below) is the head of the Foreign Languages Department.

(Right) Mr. Sovine helps Cliff Boyer lead a discussion on "dissent" in U.S. History.

Social Studies Teaches

World Events

The knowledge of social studies is concerned with the structure and impact which governments have had upon the world. To fulfill graduation requirements, all students must take citizenship, U.S. History, Civics, and sociology or economics. Several department courses are supplemented with the use of the "American Observer," an informative paper on current events. Mr. Richard Harley (above) is head of this department.

Bands Perform

Kicking off the first home football game, our Crimson Marching Band begins its season of performing marching drills. Marching season for band takes in the months of September and October. During this time the band participated in the marching contest and received a first.

Following the last marching performance efforts are concentrated on re-establishing the concert band. The band presents a winter concert. Mr. Sharpe (right) heads the Music Dept.

Mr. Yoder, the new special education teacher, works hard to help his students.

Special Education

Mr. Yoder explains the essentials of mathematics to his students.

This year's special education program under the direction of Mr. Yoder (above) has offered the students courses in social studies, English, and vocational information. Also the juniors and seniors have been eligible for practical on-the-job training experiences each school day afternoon. Practical information regarding general business practices, installment buying, commercial procedures and domestic skills have been studied. Everyday basic citizenship, along with its responsibilities and benefits, are among the aims of special education.

Members of the special education group also attend other classes such as typing, physical education, home economics, shop, mechanics, art and business courses.

Headed by Mr. Alvin Warstler, (below left) the Industrial Arts Department is responsible for giving practical vocational training to boys. General courses in shop and auto mechanics are offered. These may be followed up by advanced classes and more technical instruction.

Students may elect to take mechanical drawing in which drafting and blueprints are studied. Small building construction and design is the main study area in architectural drawing. Other shop courses deal with electricity, metal work, power machinery, and wood work.

Goshen's 1969 football team, coached by Mr. Doba, experienced its first winning season in several years, posting a 6-4 record. This was the first year that GHS has not been participating in the Northern Indiana Conference and therefore played several teams for the first time. It was announced at the Fall Sports Banquet that Jim Fretz and Dave Hess will take Jim Whitehead's place as co-captains of the team for next year. Jim Whitehead was cited for having the best mental attitude, Jim Fretz had the most tackles of the season, and the most valuable lineman was Bruce Huser.

YEARBOOK ARTIST Rita Rassi

My special thanks go to all the persons that made this yearbook possible. Hundreds of hours of hard work go on behind the scene before the finished product comes to you the student. Mark Kurtz, of the Goshen News, took many pictures just for the Crimson. Mr. Jim Bell, our representative from Taylor Publishing Company, helped us with all our technical problems. Pat Akers also deserves a pat on the back for all the pictures he took for us this year.

Moore's Studio of Goshen took all the Senior Class pictures, classroom pictures and other various pictures.

Two people that spent time and energy working for the Crimson were Mrs. Dwyer and Mr. Hildebrand. Mrs. Dwyer handled all financial dealings. Mr. Hildebrand helped us find the key to success with our yearbook.

There are also two students that I would like to thank for all their work. The first is my Assistant-Editor, Sue Hendricks. She helped on all sections of the yearbook. The second is Diana Baker. Diana was always there ready to do any work assigned her.

Good-luck seniors on your futures.
